Science & Technology Collections— Now with Deep Indexing

ProQuest's renowned science and technology collections provide more than unmatched, discipline-specific bibliographic data from thousands of publications. Now they also include hundreds of peer-reviewed, full-text articles and are supported with unique ProQuest Deep Indexing functionality, making it possible for researchers to uncover critical information hidden in tables, charts, figures, and graphs. ProQuest Deep Indexing uses an average of eight index terms to every table and figure in a journal article to help researchers find what they need faster. Other products, at best, index only the captions. Collections include the following.

ProQuest Advanced Technologies & Aerospace Collection

Whether your researcher is studying lasers, aerodynamics, computing, telecommunications, physics, space, optics, or other technology-related sciences, start here. This collection features millions of Advanced Technologies Research Database with Aerospace records, hundreds of ProQuest High Technology and Aerospace Journals, and the support of deep indexing to illuminate hidden data.

ProQuest Agricultural Science Collection

Start here to find critical research on biotechnology, pesticides, food and nutrition, animal sciences, and more. This collection features the AGRICOLA® bibliographic database, hundreds of full-text ProQuest Agriculture Journals, and deep indexing of millions of tables and figures.

ProQuest Aquatic Science Collection

This resource is critical for researchers studying conservation, aquatic pollution, environmental quality, oceanography, policy and legislation, and more. It features the Aquatic Sciences and Fisheries Abstracts database, hundreds of full-text ProQuest Aquatic Science journals, and deep indexing.

ProQuest Atmospheric Science Collection

To find the leading research on air pollution, climatology, glaciology, weather forecasting, and more, start here. This collection includes the Meteorological & Geostrophysical Abstracts database, full-text ProQuest Atmospheric Science Journals, and deep indexing to uncover hidden data.

ProQuest Biological Science Collection

Start here for access to hundreds of full-text ProQuest Biology Journals, Conference Papers Index, Biological Sciences database, Plant Science, Medline, and Toxline. This resource features deep indexing of millions of tables and figures. Major areas of coverage include immunology, biotechnology, genetics, AIDS, and more.

ProQuest Computer Science Collection

This is an excellent resource for those interested in learning more about computer applications and programming, hardware, information systems, software engineering, and computing mathematics. Supported by deep indexing, this collection includes the Computer and Information Systems Abstracts database and ProQuest Computer Science Journals.

ProQuest Earth Science Collection

This research collection includes GeoRef, Oceanic Abstracts, hundreds of ProQuest Earth Science Journals, and deep indexing of more than a million tables and figures, illuminating critical data for today's serious researchers. This resource supports the study of geophysics, petrology, economic and environmental geology, hydrogeology, and more.

ProQuest Engineering Collection

With access to Engineering Research Database and ProQuest Engineering Journals, and further supported with deep indexing, researchers will find this an ideal resource for the study of electric and hybrid cars, coastal and offshore structures, wind power, seismic phenomena, aircraft design, and more.

ProQuest Environmental Science Collection

Researchers looking for the latest data on energy resources, safety science, air quality, hazardous waste, ecology, and more should start here. This collection features Environmental Impact Statements (index and full text), the Environment Sciences & Pollution Management bibliographic database, hundreds of full-text Environmental Science Journals, and deep indexing of more than a million tables and figures.

ProQuest Materials Science Collection

Start here for access to Materials Research Database with METADEX, ProQuest Materials Science Journals, and deep indexing of over a million tables and figures. It's ideal for those interested in topics such as materials processing and applications, recycling, biomaterials, quality control, and more.

ProQuest Natural Science Collection

This collection features millions of All Natural Science A&I records, thousands of full-text ProQuest Natural Science Journals, and deep indexing to help researchers find the most relevant information available, no matter where it is hidden.

ProQuest Polymer Science Collection

Whether your researcher wants to study polymer applications and testing, legislation and regulations, environmental hazards and toxicity, or more, start here. This collection features nearly a million Polymer Science A&I records, ProQuest Polymer Science Journals, and deep indexing of tables and figures.

ProQuest Technology Collection

Featuring the Technology Research Database, thousands of full-text ProQuest Technology Journals, and deep indexing of millions of tables and figures, this collection is an excellent resource for those studying aerospace, materials science, advanced technologies, mechanical and transportation engineering, and more.

Environmental Impact Statements: Full-Text and Digests

This resource helps the government and the general public understand the effects that developments such as roads, houses, and airports have on the environment. Abstracts of these statements are available from 1985 forward, and full-text versions are available for millions of statements issued beginning in 2003.

National Technical Information Service (NTIS) Database

The NTIS Database is the preeminent resource for accessing the latest U.S. government-sponsored research and worldwide scientific, technical, engineering, and business-related information. Content is

AtmosPeer: An Online Community

ProQuest, in collaboration with three atmospheric organizations, recently launched AtmosPeer, an online community designed specifically for atmospheric science researchers, scholars, librarians, and students. Not only does it allow scholars to identify peers doing similar research and create a simple method for document sharing and collaboration, it also connects scientists to emerging research trends, news feeds, conference information, and funding opportunities. Learn more at www.atmospeer.net.

Health Sciences

ProQuest Health and Medical Complete™

This core collection provides information from clinical research titles as well as from hundreds of consumer and administration titles. Topics include medical sciences, immunology, pharmacology, nursing, physical fitness, surgery, and others. Most titles are available in full text and with MEDLINE indexing.

Law

Dialog and Innography

The pairing of Dialog's precision search and Innography's advanced IP business intelligence analytics enables researchers to uncover patterns and trends in patent literature at a glance. Researchers can effortlessly export citations, IPC classifications, patent strength, and many other details from a multi-select checklist; quickly search INPADOC legal status and perform opposition searches with new query syntax; and efficiently download PDF documents and view first-page diagrams.

Innography integrates information from patent, financial, and case law databases to allow fast analysis and visualization of results. Using it, researchers can blend and graph very large data sets quickly with other information to produce a result that is larger than the sum of its parts. Additional tools are available to mine and analyze abstracts, art, infringements, patent numbers, and more.

Government

Digital National Security Archive

The Digital National Security Archive includes tens of thousands of declassified documents, many obtained through the Freedom of Information Act.

The screenshot shows the website's header with the title "DIGITAL NATIONAL SECURITY ARCHIVE" and the tagline "The documents that made U.S. policy". Below the header are navigation tabs for "COLLECTIONS GUIDE", "INFORMATION RESOURCES", and "MY ARCHIVE". A "QUICK SEARCH" box is on the left, and a "SEARCH" sidebar lists categories like "DOCUMENTS", "BIBLIOGRAPHY", "CHRONOLOGY", and "GLOSSARY". The main content area features a featured article titled "THE WHITE HOUSE WASHINGTON" dated March 15, 1976, with a photo of a man in a suit. A "What's New?" section lists recent updates, and a "Also available" section mentions the "CIA Family Jewels Indexed" database.

The two newest collections include:

The United States and the Two Koreas: 1969-2000

Study the Nixon administration's response to the downing of a U.S. reconnaissance plane by North Korea, growing concern over North Korea's economic instability, and secret discussions with Japan, China, and Russia aimed at coordinating an international diplomatic response to North Korea's threat to regional security. Examine U.S.-South Korean economic relations, political liberalization in South Korea, the historic summit meeting between leaders of the two Koreas in 2000, and more with this enlightening collection.

Colombia and the United States: Human Rights, Narcotics and the Dirty War in Colombia, 1960-2010

This collection traces U.S. policy toward Colombia throughout decades of sustained conflict, political corruption, and civil unrest. Documents cover the formation and influence of insurgent groups, militias, and narcotics trafficking organizations, and the rise of paramilitary violence. The resource features dossiers on Colombian political and military figures, human rights cases, and materials that tie dozens of high-level Colombian officials to the drug trade and death squads.

Monthly Catalog of U.S. Government Publications, 1895-1976

While the U.S. government is the largest publisher in the world, very few documents have been cataloged historically. The Monthly Catalog is the only authoritative index that provides single-point, online access to high-value U.S. documents created by all three branches of the U.S. government for more than a century. It offers the complete backfile of re-keyed bibliographic records from nearly 1,000 monthly catalog issues, together with archival-quality page images.

ProQuest Military Collection™

This online resource covers topics across all government and military branches, including international relations, political science, criminology, defense, aeronautics and space flight, communications, civil engineering, and more. Researchers can access hundreds of periodicals, some dating back decades.

PolicyFile

Gain immediate access to hundreds of think tanks, research organizations, and advocacy groups, including the Hoover Institution, International Monetary Fund, Organization for Economic Cooperation and Development, RAND Corporation, and the World Bank. PolicyFile links directly to current research on virtually every public policy issue—U.S. and international. More than 50 percent of the abstracts link directly to the full text of research reports and studies.

World Conflicts Today™

Navigate the complexities of the political and cultural conflicts shaping our world with clear, concise text and multimedia resources that analyze 10 major, unresolved conflicts, including Afghanistan, Iraq, Korean Peninsula, and the Palestinian Territories. This resource synthesizes volumes of news articles, primary sources, books, and opinion pieces generated by each conflict, offering unbiased insight into why conflicts remain so difficult to resolve today.

The screenshot shows the "World Conflicts Today" website interface. The main heading is "Afghanistan". Below it is a navigation menu with options like "Overview", "History", "Origins", "Developments", "Recent Events", "Timeline", "Obstacles", "Implications", "Regional", "Global", "Resources", "Key Groups", "Key Individuals", "Statistics", "Primary Sources", "Glossary", "Works Cited", and "Teaching Tools". The "Overview" section is selected, showing a map of Afghanistan and a text box titled "Why has Afghanistan been so violent throughout its history?". The text discusses the historical context of violence in Afghanistan, mentioning territorial disputes and foreign powers.

Search Results: nuclear terrorism. Showing 1-25 of 397 results (3017 in total).

Nuclear Terrorism

We live in dangerous times and perhaps the greatest threat we face is the potential for nuclear terrorism. The specter of a mushroom cloud over a city or the casualties and chaos from explosion of a radioactive dispersal device is what has led more than 50 countries to join the Global Initiative to Combat Nuclear Terrorism. The technology, expertise and material needed to produce a nuclear weapon have become more widespread... Terrorists and their supporters continue to try to acquire nuclear material on the black market. Fortunately, most of the hundreds of cases over the past decade involved hoaxes or material unsuitable for a radioactive device. But there have also been troubling cases.
